Report of the Board of Health

To the Citizens of the Town of Easton:

During the year 1919 there were one hundred and forty-four (144) cases of reportable diseases reported to the Board of Health, classified as follows:

Influenza, 78; Measles, 43; Diphtheria, 13; Scarlet Fever, 4; Lobar Pneumonia, 2; German Measles, 1; Tuberculosis, 11; Typhoid Fever, 1.

From such diseases there were six deaths as follows: Influenza, 1; Influenza and Bronchial Pneumonia, 2; Influenza and Lobar Pneumonia, 1; Tuberculosis, 2.

The sanitary survey of the Town made this year showed a continued improvement in general conditions, indicating a spirit of co-operation on the part of the householders in general, which is greatly appreciated by the Board.

Mr. Theodore W. Glover, Jr., teacher of Agriculture in the Public Schools, having qualified for inspecting milk, the Board appointed him Inspector of Milk, and during the year he has made regular collections and inspections of samples of milk from the dealers who distribute a material quantity of milk in the Town.

A report of his inspections is made to the Board. This report contains the percent of fat and other solids, report of sediment, and the bacteria count. In addition to this, the sample is strained through a cotton disc, so that the amount of dirt in the sample is shown. These discs are cut in halves and one-half is sent to the Board.

Some of the earlier samples inspected disclosed a bacteria count which was altogether too high, and also showed in many cases that the milk was very dirty. In a few cases it appeared that the milk was below the legal standard, although an equal number of samples were above the legal standard in fats and solids.

There is no doubt that in the case where the milk was below the legal standard in fats and solids, the reason was improper mixing.

We are very glad to say that when these matters were called to the attention of the milk dealers that the quality of the milk distributed in Easton began to improve, and that now it is a rare case where a sample shows a bacteria count which is too high, or which is dirty. On the contrary, most of the milk men have succeeded in reducing their bacteria count to a very low number, and their milk is also much cleaner.

In 1919 eighty (80) milk licenses were in force.

We wish to call attention to Chapter 360 of the Acts of the year 1919, which requires that any person other than a registered druggist buying and selling wood alcohol or denatured alcohol must have a license from the Board of Health.

The number of births in Easton in 1919 was 81. The number of deaths was 61, and 7 still born.

Report of the Welcome Home Committee

To the Citizens of the Town of Easton:

The Committee appointed for the purpose of welcoming home the sons and daughters of Easton who participated in the world war submit the following report:

When the matter of the form which the town's welcome should take was first discussed by the Committee, it appeared that the process of discharging the service men would extend over an uncertain period of time. Under the circumstances it was decided that it would be impracticable to arrange one function at which all could be present.

On May 5, 1919, the Committee tendered a banquet in Ames Memorial Hall to those who had then returned. The banquet was followed by a dance to which each service man was permitted to invite a lady and each service woman was permitted to invite a man.

On September 20, 1919, the Committee arranged a field day at the "plains." A clambake was served, after which service men and school children engaged in various sports, the principal feature being a baseball game between a team composed of former army men and a team composed of former navy men. All the people of Easton were invited to the field day, and tickets to the clambake were sold to those who wished to purchase, at actual cost. Acknowledgement is made by the Committee to the Simpson Spring Co. for tonic donated by that company for use at the field day. In the evening a dance was given in Ames Memorial Hall to the service men and women and their guests. Citizens of Easton were permitted to purchase tickets for the dance.

On January 5, 1920, a banquet was given to which were invited all those who had not returned in season to attend the banquet of May 5, 1919. After the banquet a dance was held to which all service men and women and their guests were invited. During the evening the Committee presented on behalf of the town to each service man and woman a medal bearing on the obverse side the figure of Victory, with the words, "United States Forces, 1917-1918," and on the reverse side the words, "Presented by the Town of Easton, Massachusetts, in grateful recognition of patriotic service in the World War."

The matter of compiling a correct list of the sons and daughters of Easton who are entitled to recognition as having participated in the world war has given the Committee the greatest difficulty. We have used every available means in an effort to make such a list, but we make no claim that our list is absolutely correct. Questions have arisen as to the status of certain classes of men upon which no official decision could be had. It may be that some names appear on the list which should not be there and it may be that some have been omitted that should appear on the list. If such be the case, the only comment the Committee can make is that it has done its best to do justice to all concerned.

Annual Report of the School Committee

To the Citizens of Easton:

The School Committee herewith submits its annual report:

It has long been the custom of the Committee to receive from the Superintendent of Schools an annual report including those of the several supervisors. This year the report, which Superintendent Wheeler handed in, was so comprehensive and treated the subjects in such an admirable manner, that the Committee voted to submit it to the voters of Easton without revision.

The use of charts to illustrate the earnings and expenditures is acknowledged today by the most successful concerns to be the best method by which to place before its directors a complete picture of the business. Your school Committee has thus adopted this plan, in placing before the voters of Easton the expenses of the School Department.

Chart III shows how many cents of each dollar of school money has been spent in Easton during the years 1916-1919 inclusive. It also gives the State figures for 1918.

Under sundries, fuel and text books the differences between Easton and the State may in general be accounted for by a different classification of expenditures. For instance: miscellaneous supplies for instruction are classified under sundries in Easton, whereas in the State, they are listed under text books; likewise, janitors supplies in Easton are listed under sundries, whereas in the State, they are listed under fuel.

A marked difference between the State and Easton appears under salaries and transportation.

FINANCES

On January 30, 1920, the School Committee met the Finance Committee to talk over a proposed school budget, which had been submitted to them in detail earlier in the month. The evening was a success as there resulted a general exchange of ideas. The appropriation for Salaries and Repairs was discussed in full. The School Committee considers the question of Salaries a vital issue and it asks each voter to read carefully that Section of Superintendant Wheeler's report headed "Salaries."

TRANSPORTATION

The transportation problem has always been a serious one. The School Committee has asked for $7300.00. It believes that the town of Easton eventually will have to do its own transportation and even now it seems as if it would be economy to buy one bus and gradually take over the entire transportation of school children. Superintendent Wheeler and Mr. Ames visited Chelmsford and saw how it had handled a similar situation. Mr. Ames undoubtedly will speak on this subject at the annual town meeting.

Born in Easton February 4, 1862, died in North Easton, March 31, 1919

For thirty years teacher in the Public Schools of Easton

First Principal of the Junior High School

Organizer and President of the Easton Teachers' Club

"A life spent in service for the good of all with whom she was associated.

TO THE MEMORY OF HELEN L. DRAKE

A woman of strong purpose and noble character who served long and faithfully in the capacity of teacher in the public schools of our Town has passed away — a woman of rare mental faculties whose mission in life had been to impart knowledge to the youth of Easton.

Through her keen understanding of human nature and a spirit of kindness, she ever brought cheer and inspiration into the lives of our young people, thus filling their minds with aims and ambitions that will be a gracious influence through all the years to come, and withal establishing those principles and those virtues which make for good citizenship — a noble work, indeed.

Ever interested in all phases of educational work, many of the achievements of recent years are due to her untiring efforts to promote school activities.

By her death, the town of Easton has been deprived of a valuable citizen, our young people, of an able instructor and a loved friend, while social circles have lost a brilliant leader.

May her name be held in loving remembrance.

Signed, EDWARD M. CARR, Chairman.

Report of the Superintendent of Schools

To the School Committee of Easton,

Madam and Gentlemen: It gives me pleasure to submit to you my second annual report, which is the thirty-fifth from the office of the Superintendent of Schools.

ACTIVITIES

During the year, 151 visits have been made to the eleven outside school rooms and 31 additional visits have been made to the seven buildings, making a total of 182. A complete record has not been kept of the visits made in the 28 rooms in the North Easton district. Considerable time has been spent on the adjustment of the daily programs, especially in the schools of several grades, to the end that the various subjects and grades may receive an equitable portion of the teacher's time. Twenty-two teachers' meetings have been held. The teachers have met in three groups: primary, grammar, and high. Many conferences have also been held with principals and supervisors. At these meetings the following subjects and others have been discussed: courses of study; plan book and lesson plans; methods of presentation; grading, ranking and promotion of pupils; tests; care and use of supplies and apparatus; program; seat work; and health supervision including ventilation and school room sanitation. There have been several demonstration lessons with pupils conducted by the teachers or superintendent. Special emphasis has been placed upon oral English, correct usage, and ability to interpret the printed page. There have been seventeen meetings of the school committee.

During the first six months of the calendar year I also acted as principal of the high school. In August, Mr. Frederick Smith was elected principal. There are now no more teachers than formerly, but the work has been re-arranged. Mr. Smith teaches as many periods as did the teacher who formerly taught in the English department, and in addition performs the work of the principal of the school. This arrangement is much better, not only for the high school but for all of the schools.

An efficient school system may be likened to a fleet of new automobiles. The teachers are the chauffeurs. The cars are usually very serviceable for a year or two with such attentions as the chauffeurs may give them. The daily duties of supplying gasoline and oil, and a few other minor activities keep the machines in fairly good running condition, but after two or three years many of the chauffeurs will have changed. The cars now need more attention than the chauffeurs are able or have time to give. From this time on, each car needs the constant attention of a skilled mechanic if the fleet is to continue to do its work successfully and without unnecessary interruptions.

Principals and superintendents are endeavoring to maintain efficient schools by eliminating as far as possible the detrimental effects of the many interruptions which are now constantly affecting the school system. Policies and plans extending over a period of years are necessary in every successful undertaking, and the public school system is no exception. The schools need much more continuity of thought and action than the teacher will give who comes today and leaves tomorrow.

SCHOOL EXHIBIT

During the first week of May an exhibit was held in the Ames Memorial Hall which included displays from every grade and department in town. Aside from the exhibit there were public demonstrations which included work in dramatization by the elementary schools, a high school speaking contest, and a debate by the Junior class of the high school. These exercises were a credit to the teachers and their students who took part.

Preparation for the public exercises furnished a motive for growth in oral expression which is never too well emphasized in any school system and which needs especial emphasis in Easton. The results secured in this respect were very encouraging.

The committee appointed by the school committee to inspect the work submitted the following report:

We, the committee appointed to inspect the exhibition of school work in Ames Memorial Hall on May seven and eight, feel that our first duty is to congratulate both pupils and teachers on the excellent and interesting display found there.

We were particularly impressed by the excellence of the drawing and art work. The third grade drawing was exceptionally good for children of that age. They seemed to have grasped the use of two and three tones almost as well as had grades four and five. If the same instruction were continued, these pupils, as they advance, ought to show even better results than do the present classes above them, and to be able to undertake more varied and difficult subjects. The rug designing, which we believe is new, is particularly desirable, and will be helpful in getting rid of some of the glaring rugs produced by the last generation. The free hand drawing was good, and we felt it might be an advantage to introduce it earlier in the course.

The value of the Domestic Science department to the future homemakers cannot be over-estimated. They are learning things of fundamental importance in daily living, food values, cost of goods, the proper cooking and serving of meals. The dressmaking of and millinery sections were a surprise to us, as we had no idea such advanced work was being done. Colors and materials were used with taste, cleverness and neatness.

The wood-working and mechanical drawing showed good results considering that the year's work had been limited by the absence of the teacher on military duty. The exhibition of bird houses was charmingly planned to arouse interest in the birds as well as the houses.

In the Science work, the well-kept note books indicated that the boys and girls were having an opportunity to receive a good general foundation in biology, chemistry, and physics, such as a few years ago were given in a first year in college.

The whole High school exhibition is a fine response to the present demands of parents and children that the courses there shall be useful and practical. It is natural that the pendulum should swing that way. We strongly urge that pupils should be encouraged to take the History and Language courses which are essential to a well rounded education, and which they will miss in later years if they confine themselves too closely to the commercial lines. Just now they will elect the useful of their own accord; they need to be directed toward the cultural.

It is impossible to speak except in praise of the work of the grades. It showed a conscientious effort by all the teachers to give the best possible foundation in arithmetic, writing and English. The papers on given subjects and the letter writing showed originality, and the handwriting was noticeably good up to the sixth grade. Then the tendency to write rapidly as pupils begin to take notes seems to spoil the training of earlier years, and, as is often the case, the High school writing, is, with, of course, exceptions, comparatively ragged and careless.

An exhibition of such magnitude shows that our new superintendent is a man of enterprise and the town is indebted to him for this proof of the sound condition of our schools.

(Signed) KATE L. PORTER,
ISABEL S. KELLEY.

INVENTORY

It has seemed advisable to make a more complete inventory of the supplies and apparatus used for instructional purposes than has been the usual custom. This is especially important at the present time, as it assists us in using to advantage what has already been purchased and is a guide in determining further expenditures. The inventory is also especially desirable because of the many changes in the teaching force.

FLAG POLE — JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

We wish to acknowledge the gift from Mr. John S. Ames of an excellent flag pole for this building.

AMES FREE AND SCHOOL LIBRARIES

An effort is being made to bring about a broader use of our library facilities. In addition to the catalog of the Ames Free Library, Wilson's catalog, which is arranged by subjects, titles and authors and in which the books are classified according to school grades, has been prepared for the use of the teachers by the librarian, Miss Lamprey.

This will aid the teachers in guiding their pupils to select informational reading matter that will supplement the school work, and in directing them to the best literary selections.

CHART IV DISTRIBUTION BY GRADES

As compared with the percentage distribution of pupils among the grades throughout the State, it may be interesting for you to know that your high school is holding a much higher percentage of the school population than the State average. In our high school as a whole the enrolment is 30% greater and in the Senior class it is 74% greater. Our High school has seven courses of study which doubtless make it more expensive than if we had but two or three courses, but is not the extra expense warranted if it gives all types of boys and girls the kind of education they need. The public high school has been well called the peoples' college.

DISTRIBUTION OF HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

Chart V is interesting. Seven of the thirty-three graduates entered college; four, normal schools and one, business school. All of the graduates of the college course with the exception of one student who is ill have entered college; but only four of the ten who pursued the normal course have entered normal school. Doubtless this is entirely representative of the conditions throughout the country, and it indicates what we all know — that there is a shifting from the preparation for teaching to other lines of activity which require in general less time for preparation and in which the immediate rewards are greater. It is doubtful if these conditions will remain longer thus, for communities are beginning to realize the necessity of better providing for the education of the youth of the Nation.

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

Chart VI gives a record of the War Savings stamps bought during the year and a comparison with the savings of 1918. The most striking result is the great falling off. Only 15% of the pupils have invested this year whereas 65% invested last year. The amount saved is about \$4500 less than last year or less than $\frac{1}{4}$ of the amount. There may be reasons for this, but the results are certainly disappointing. It is evident that the lessons "heard" during the war were not learned, at least they were not well fixed as a habit.

We are told that careful spending and saving are needed as much now if not more than during the war period, if the unusual conditions are to be properly adjusted. Can we not do better another year?

AMERICANIZATION CLASSES

Through the efforts of the local Americanization committee two Americanization classes were started in December. The enrolment is not large, but those who attend are very much interested and good progress is being made. By a new arrangement the State pays one-half of the expense for this work.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

A change has been made in the physical education department. The work has been expanded and includes all pupils in town. The relation between physical training and health education is being emphasized. Last year there were only 89 of the older students who had definite work in this department. This year every student in town comes under the supervision of Miss Crosby.

The present arrangement is very satisfactory except that the high school boys have no opportunity to take up the gymnasium work for special credit which was given them last year, and is now being given the girls.

The disadvantages however are more than compensated by the advantages which all the school children are now receiving.

The town is much indebted to Mr. Oakes Ames who very generously supports this department.

EMPLOYMENT

Chart VII indicates the number of educational and employment certificates issued. According to the new State law no certificate can be issued to a person 14 and 15 years of age unless he has completed the work of the sixth grade. A limited certificate may be secured to work only upon days when school is not in session.

MENTAL AND CHRONOLOGICAL AGE

It will probably become common school practice soon for intelligence tests to be given to all beginners to ascertain their mental ages. Pupils will be admitted to the kindergarten and first grade on the basis of mental rather than chronological age.

Inspection of the enrolment in the majority of school systems shows many more pupils in the first grade than elsewhere. This may be partially due to the poor attendance of beginners, but it is also true that the first grade teacher struggles with many minds that have not yet developed sufficiently to do first grade work. There are three important and unnecessary results:

1. Teachers carry unnecessary load.
2. Immature pupils learn desultory habits and may be made unhappy through lack of accomplishment.
3. The progress of the capable pupils is materially lessened.

All this happens because tested scientific principles are not applied. The question may rightly be asked what will happen to a child who does not pass an intelligence test to enter the first grade until he is two or three years older than the average. The State has provided by a new law that all children, not only in the first grade but in all grades, who are three years or more retarded in mental development shall attend special classes adapted to their mental attainments. The law is mandatory in towns having ten or more children of this degree of retardation.

Intelligence tests should also aid teachers in determining whether certain pupils are backward because of low mental ability or because of lack of effort or absenteeism. A bright pupil is often grouped with others of less mental development and consequently his work becomes uninteresting and lacks the mental stimulus which he deserves. He should be given more advanced work.

Chart VIII gives the mental ages of 263 eleven year old children as tested by experts. Note the extreme distribution from seven or less, to sixteen or more in mental age.

CHART VIII

Mental Age	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	or less									or more
Percent	2.66	5.32	9.50	15.96	22.81	14.07	12.93	8.36	5.32	3.04

CHART IX

Chart IX shows the overlapping of mental ages in the different grades.

Mental Age	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
First Grade	4	22	31	51	32	6	2	1
Fifth Grade					1	1	10	26	17	13	6	3	2
Ninth Grade										2	10	32	32	29	18	11	3

It is seen that not only do first grade children greatly overlap those of the fifth grade, and fifth grade children those of the first year of high school, but that the brightest child in the first grade has all but reached a point in mental ability corresponding to the lowest pupil in the high school. The brightest of the fifth grade pupils are above the median mental level for the first year of high school, and the brightest of the first grade almost reach the median for the fifth grade.

Chart X gives the distribution of the pupils of Easton by age and grade. It shows seven pupils three years retarded. A study will be made of these children to ascertain if possible, causes of retardation and what kind of special aid will assist them.

Comparisons with a chart made in 1917 show very little change in the percentages of the totals. This year's figures show very satisfactory conditions except for the retardation in the fifth grade. Possibly, also, the age of the students in the senior class of the high school is too young for the best standard of work. Some seniors will be too young to enter college because of the college age limit. They might well continue in our high school for another year.

KINDERGARTEN AND NORTH EASTON GRAMMAR

The small sewing room in the North Easton grammar school has been used as a school room by one division of the 6th grade. This is not a satisfactory arrangement. It is possible that a better arrangement would be for the Kindergarten, which meets only for a half day, to be assigned to the basement room in the North Easton grammar school, and then keep another division of the second grade in the Junior Primary building. This plan would provide for one extra room at the Grammar school.

TRANSPORTATION

It is my plan to present a supplementary report later relative to this subject.

COSTS

Comparisons of the figures for 1918 and 1919 show an increase cost in average membership for all schools of 10%. This includes all expenditures by the town. The total figures given in Chart XI are the amounts paid by the town, but the per capita costs include the amounts paid by the Oakes Ames Fund. Because of the general abnormal conditions this 10% increase would seem to be very reasonable.

The following report was presented by you to the finance committee in June in reply to their request for a statement concerning comparative expenditures for schools in Easton and elsewhere. It may interest others.

In 1907-1908, the average cost per pupil enrolled in all the High schools in Mass., was $50.64; in 1917-18, the cost was $74.69.

In 1907-08 the average cost per pupil in average membership all grades was $32.57 not including permanent repairs; in 1917-18, the cost was $48.73. In Easton the average cost for 1917-18 was $48.83.

Comparisons of costs in 22 high schools of State whose membership was from 100 to 500 as compared with the cost in the six upper grades of the Junior High school and High school of North Easton with a membership of over 300 are given below.

	Pupils per Teacher	Average Salaries
Average.....	21.57	$929.70

AVERAGE PER CAPITA COST

	22 Schools	Easton

Light, fuel etc.....	7.45	3.96
Clerical help.....	.72	.48
Total.....	$65.85	$61.47

Note: This does not include the cost of transportation or of repairs.

It will be noted that Easton is spending for her schools on a per capita basis practically the same as the State is spending. Is not this a satisfactory condition and what the majority of the people in town desire? It is not necessary or desirable to reach the highest level in costs, but it is certainly very undesirable to think of allowing your school system to deteriorate by curtailing expenditures to the extent that obtains in less fortunate towns.

SALARIES

I desire to introduce this subject by showing a comparison between the salaries of teachers and others.

The figures below show the relation between the salaries of teachers and salaries in other professions; also between teachers, workers in the building trades, and both male and female laborers in the basal industries of the country. The percentages of increase in the various occupations are shown from 1914-1919, with the percentages of increase in the cost of living and materials. The figures which show the relation of the incomes obtained in the various professions are only relative — they are not absolutely correct today, but relatively they are important. The figures concerning the workers in building trades etc. and teachers, with the percentage increases are supposed to be correct.

Only eight of the thirty-five women teachers in Easton received salaries expressed in four figures in November 1919. The average salary for all women teachers was then $884.71.

The amount expended by the town for salaries in 1919 was $37,451. 37. The December rate is $40,017 and that for January will be nearly $41,000, for you were able, by granting increases, to retain four of the nine teachers who have wished to be released since September. Nineteen teachers have been engaged since the regular election in April. There are not, however, nineteen new teachers in town as several positions have been filled more than once. The last teacher to leave has secured another position at an advance of from $500 to $600.

You have asked the Finance committee to recommend to the town an increase of $10,000 over the present rate, and that the increase be made to date from January 1. I firmly believe that this amount is necessary in order to maintain the efficiency and morale of our teaching force, and thereby partially equalize the injustice brought about by the shrinkage in value of the once so-called almighty dollar.

Superintendents of schools who are assisting committees in the selection of teachers have gained through experience the facts concerning the supply and demand, and the salaries necessary to retain or secure efficient teachers. The amount for which you have asked is needed and doubtless will be provided. In many towns and cities this matter has already been decided.

However, there is need that all parties concerned should think sanely in regard to these matters. In conclusion may I quote from an article in the School Review concerning an incident in Minnesota. Probably the fundamental principles obtain in Massachusetts as in Minnesota, and this article may help us to clarify our thoughts.

"No one can attend meetings of teachers these days without carrying away a vivid impression of the restlessness which has taken hold of the profession. There is a tenseness about the election of officers and about the adoption of resolutions which shows that issues of importance and issues with a strong personal appeal are in the air. There is an emphasis on reports of committees on reorganization and on teachers' salaries which makes it evident that the political urge and the economic urge are having their full influence. In the midst of this boiling situation there is a strong effort being made to swing the organized teachers into line for concerted action.

The example of Minnesota is one of the most encouraging as exhibiting what constructive leadership will do to turn all this restlessness into right channels. At the recent state association meeting in that State there was a strong effort on the part of the Teachers' Federation to get control. The official organizer of the federation was present, and representatives of the local unions in Minneapolis and St. Paul were active. In the course of events Professor L. D. Coffman was nominated for the presidency of the association. This brought matters to a definite issue because Mr. Coffman's position is fully understood from his frequent and lucid statements on radicalism.

In order to make sure that the next stage of the matter is correctly reported the writer of this editorial asked Professor Coffman to state what passed between him and the leaders of the federation. His statement is as follows:

'I received a long letter from the representatives of the unions asking my attitude on the American Federation of Teachers, on collective bargaining, and on the scheme prepared for the reorganization of the state association. I replied to the question at some length, taking the position that I favored an American Federation of Teachers but not an American Federation of Teachers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. I also took the stand that we could not favor collective bargaining among teachers if that means that teachers would bargain for uniform salaries to be administered in a uniform way, or if it means that they would use coercion or the strike to gain their point. I favor collective bargaining in the sense that any organized group of teachers should prepare its program and be privileged to present that program with all the vigor and force it can command to the administrative authorities of the schools and to the public.'

Mr. Coffman was elected president of the association — a result which shows that teachers recognize the strength of such a position as Mr. Coffman took in his platform. That position has the virtue of ignoring nothing that is essential and boldly rejecting all that is unprofessional. ”

Extracts from the reports of the High School principal and teachers and supervisors of special subjects will be found which give further information concerning the accomplishments and needs of the schools.

Respectfully,

CARLON E. WHEELER,
Superintendent of Schools.

REPORT OF THE HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL, MR. FREDERICK SMITH

GENERAL CONDITION

The Oliver Ames High School opened September 3rd. The general condition of the school is excellent. There has been a spirit of cooperation between the pupils and the teachers which has thus far and should for the rest of the year continue to secure good results. This harmony has been jarred at times by individuals, but, on the whole the relations between pupils and teachers have been pleasant.

NEW TEACHERS

The principal, four teachers, and the physical instructor are new to the teaching force this year. This indicates somewhat the unsettled condition of the teaching profession which makes necessary an undesirable amount of readjustment each year. In a school the size of ours the loss of a good teacher is felt more keenly than in a larger school because in any small high school each teacher has duties and influences outside her classroom that cannot be easily transferred to her successor.

INTEREST OF PARENTS

Parents can aid the work of the school materially by encouraging their children to do better work, by showing an interest in the school work, and by giving prompt attention to communications from the school. The parent who inquires about the work of his child with the idea of aiding the teacher and the child to get better results is a person welcome to any teacher, but one too rarely met with. Lack of interest on the part of parents induces lack of interest on the part of the children.

Parents should be careful not to keep a child out of school or allow him to stay out unless his health demands it. Too many pupils have remained out this year to work, or because the convenience of the parent was put before the good of his child. Work lost by absence can almost never be made up satisfactorily. Every time a parent either allows or requires a child to stay out of school he is making the child lose something.

A reception to parents and new teachers at the beginning of the school year would be helpful. It would afford an opportunity for parents and teachers as well as teachers and students to become acquainted at the proper time, namely the first of the year. Such an event should promote an understanding between parents and teachers, whose knowledge of each other is usually secured only by the exchange of an occasional note during the school year.

REMAINING IN SCHOOL AFTER FOURTEEN YEARS

Mr. Conrad, one of the leading officials of the Massachusetts Branch of the American Federation of Labor, a man with very wide experience in government employment work, stated before a convention of teachers that the boys and girls between fourteen and eighteen who were not trained to do anything in particular were a menace to themselves and the country. Such boys and girls drift from job to job without ever making much progress. Parents are following a very short sighted policy when they allow their children to leave school before they have secured all the school has to offer them.

COURSES

The High School offered this year seven courses of instruction. The course of study, Chart XIV, is appended to this report and should be studied by parents in order to advise their children in the selection of a course. The growth of the Commercial course in the High School has been noticeable as will be seen by anyone who will compare Chart XIII of this report with the same chart of the report for last year and the year before. If a pupil intends to enter strictly commercial work he should by all means elect the Commercial course. However, too many are taking up the Commercial course who have no such definite purpose in mind, but are merely taking it because in some ways it appears to be most convenient course to take. This increase in the size of the Commercial course will make necessary the readjustment of the teaching force. At least another teacher should be added. If it is not possible to add another teacher, the College and Normal courses should be rearranged so that the Commercial pupils may have a proportionate share of the time of the teachers. It will be very difficult to make such a rearrangement without a sacrifice of efficiency.

SPECIAL APPARATUS

Adding and Listing machines have been bought for the High School during the past year, and training in the use of these machines is given to every pupil in the commercial department. Use of the Burrough's calculating machine and of the Wales adding and listing machine is taught. The committee is to be commended for providing these machines, for they are very important in the training of commercial students.

The stereopticon has been used frequently in connection with class work and special lectures. A fund to secure good lecturers to speak at the school, either with or without the stereopticon, would be very useful. Many good speakers could be secured at little expense, and the general educational value of their talks would be very great.

The development of the Pathescopic Moving Picture Machine has been such that almost every school needs to consider using it in connection with its work.

PHYSICAL TRAINING

The physical training work for the girls has been reported in another place. There has been no director for the boys this year, and no credit towards graduation has been given. However, there have been four fifteen minute periods per week devoted to physical training for the whole school. This time has been taken from the class time of the first and fifth periods on Wednesday and Friday. It has been under the direction of Miss Crosby, consisting of various setting up and breathing exercises. Some of this has been done with music. Although regular gymnasium exercises taken in longer periods would be more desirable, conditions here seem to make that impracticable. The training that has been given aims to provide every member of the school with a small amount of physical training to impress upon him a working knowledge of exercises which will enable him to develop physically if he should desire to. Such a knowledge seems to be as much a right of the high school student as a knowledge of other subjects of unquestioned educational value. The movement toward physical training in high school is so pronounced all over the country that the town should consider providing the proper facilities to conduct this on a larger scale than it has in the past.

The High School has started its regular basket ball practice, and expects to have a baseball team in the spring. The team has been in charge of Mr. Sadler, of the High School faculty. A good schedule has been arranged with High schools in nearby towns.

MUSIC

The return of Mr. Nye to the supervision of music was welcome. Under Mr. Nye's supervision the High School orchestra has been organized, and has played each week for some time at the opening exercises of the school. It expects to play in the future at High School public entertainments. Much credit is due to Mr. Nye and the members of the orchestra for their work.

The school authorities should consider the giving of credit for proficient home instruction in music upon much the same basis as credit is given for class-room work. A system could be arranged by which the music supervisor could examine pupils who had been receiving private instruction, ascertain the improvement made, and thus grade them in the way they are graded for their High School work. This would encourage many to take up the study of music who now are unable to do it and still carry enough work in school to advance with their class.

DEBATING CLUB

The Debating Club of O. A. H. S. was organized in September, 1919 with W. Talbot Kirkby, Jr. as president and Miss Francis Wadleigh of the High School faculty as faculty adviser.

Regular meetings are held every other Thursday in the High School building.

Several members of the High School who had become interested in class debates last year desired to form a club for the purpose of learning Parliamentary Law and of gaining experience in debating.

It is the desire of the Club to engage in debates with other schools.

HONOR ROLL

Plans are being made to erect a suitable honor roll in the rotunda of the High School to contain the names of former Oliver Ames High School students who served in the war. The class of 1919 donated thirty-five dollars to serve as a nucleus for a fund for this memorial. A dramatic entertainment was held, January 17, under the auspices of the school to aid this fund. About twenty-five dollars was added to the fund on this occasion. It is expected that sufficient funds to set up the roll will be procured before the end of the year.

REPORT OF THE PHYSICAL EDUCATION SUPERVISOR,
MISS GRACE T. CROSBY

This is the first year that physical education has been introduced in the grades in the town of Easton. The aims of physical education are:

- a) To improve general health
- b) To improve posture
- c) To cultivate a spirit of fairness and a love of sport
- d) To develop graceful bodily movement.

The methods used to obtain these ends are by the teaching of formal gymnastics, games and rhythmic plays.

The ideal place to give the work is in the open air, and whenever possible the children have been taken to the playground for their physical training.

Ten to fifteen minutes daily is given over for this work, and I have emphasized to the teachers the importance of calling attention frequently to good posture, alert obedience and regular exercise. Each room outside of North Easton is visited once in two weeks, and the grades in North Easton every week.

The special physical training course in the gymnasium is not compulsory, but for an attendance of two hours each week throughout the year, the pupil is given one credit toward graduation.

An outline for the gymnasium work follows:

- Marching
- Wands, Dumbbells, Indian Clubs
- Calisthenics
- Corrective Exercises
- Apparatus
- Dancing, Aesthetic, Folk
- Games

The only competitive game is Basket Ball.

The term physical education does not merely imply gymnastics and games, as people are apt to think. When one considers the aim of these various activities, one might better call it health education. Under that heading comes

- a) health examination
- b) instruction concerning the care of the body
- c) physical exercises including gymnastics, marching and athletics as health habits.

I have tried to emphasize this phase of physical education in connection with the work of the school physician, Dr. Porter. Each of his examinations has been followed by a second examination, the result of which has been reported to the child's parents or guardian. Effort has been made to inform the parents accurately concerning the importance of health supervision and the child has received health instruction. With the aid of the class teacher each case has been looked up and a record made of what has been done and of the benefit secured. In some cases I have visited the parents emphasizing the necessity of following up the health notices.

Arrangements have been made for a dental clinic at North Easton; and by Mrs. John S. Ames, for a bed in the Massachusetts General Hospital, that parents may more readily have the defects of their children corrected.

REPORT OF THE SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC

MR. BERNARD B. NYE

I am pleased to submit a report on music in the schools of Easton covering the period from September through December, 1919, this being my first report since returning from service in the U. S. Army.

It is possible to report several items of interest and progress with regard to our music. In September we began the introduction of a new system of music instruction with the Progressive Music Series, planned to cover the first six grades.

In the Junior High School the music is being successfully presented. Here songs may be chosen which give opportunity for the adolescent child to begin to experience the expression of the best emotions.

In the High School we divide the classes into two sections for singing, the upper three classes forming one chorus and the freshmen another. For special music this year we are working on selections from the opera "Aida" by Verdi. We have organized an orchestra, which at present numbers thirteen players and which meets weekly for its rehearsals. This organization offers opportunity for training and experience in playing good orchestral music to those qualified for this special music work. The orchestra has already played several times at the opening exercises of the school and at one entertainment under the auspices of the school.

I am pleased to report that by a vote of the School Board we have this year introduced in all schools a course in appreciation of music by means of the reproducing machine. This is a decided step in advance in music training. The idea is to teach the form and content of music in order to get its spirit more fully before the young people and to create the ability for intelligent listening to music. All schools in the town, through the efforts of their teachers and pupils, have secured machines, for which splendid endeavor much commendation is due them.

At Christmas appropriate carols were sung in every school in town. The custom of Christmas caroling is spreading with increased interest each year in our towns and cities.

I would recommend the allowance of credit to High School pupils for outside music study, that is, school credit to pupils who, under a private teacher, take up the study of piano, voice or orchestral instrument, such credit to be given only upon the successful passing of examinations and with regular daily practice, based on a prescribed course.

REPORT OF THE HOUSEHOLD ARTS INSTRUCTOR

MISS MARION J. ANTHONY

The Junior High School cooking includes a course which comes in the eighth year. The class meets twice a week for a one period lesson. The work includes preliminary rules, principles and practice work on beverages, fruit cookery, vegetable cookery, soups, starch cookery in desserts, quick and raised breads, eggs, meat, fish, gelatine and frozen mixtures. At the holiday season table setting and serving is taught.

The High School cooking classes have provided luncheons for teachers and some of the pupils each school day. The primary object is to teach cooking, but the combining of the lunch counter and the cooking classes enables the department to be self-supporting, the simple principles to be worked out in amounts large enough to be useful, and calls forth a more responsive attitude on the part of the students as it gives them a real responsibility.

The following menu is a typical one:

Vegetable Soup	8c
Cheese fondue	9c
Milk	4c
Cocoa	4c
Baking Powder Biscuit	4c
Spice Cake with Marshmallow Sauce	5c
Frankfurt	5c

This year a course in Household Arts is in session. The work includes a review of elementary principles of cooking, a more detailed and scientific knowledge of canning, the use and relation of bacteria, yeasts, and molds, cuts of meat, body requirements, the calory, the balanced meal and household sanitation.

The sewing work in the fifth and sixth grades of the North Easton grammar school is done entirely by hand. The children learn the stitches and then apply them to a bag made of gingham in the fifth grade and to a straight skirt in the sixth grade, the faster workers trimming their articles with cross stitch or feather stitching. The finished articles being for themselves, more interest has been shown than last year.

The members of the Junior High School sewing classes are making undergarments and cooking outfits. Machine stitching, French seams, and felled seams are worked out in their models. Patching and darning is taught.

The sophomore girls are making undergarments and street clothes. At Christmas a month was spent on holiday sewing. A notebook is kept in which many processes are explained and samples shown. In the spring term a cotton dress will be completed.

The millinery and dressmaking course will be in session again in 1920-1921.

The two days' school exhibit held last May showed all types and varieties of the work. The millinery work created much comment. Sample meals and an exhibit of ten varieties of baking powder biscuits represented the work of the cooking department.

REPORT OF THE AGRICULTURAL INSTRUCTOR,

MR. THEODORE W. GLOVER, JR.

The Agricultural Department plans to teach agriculture from the vocational standpoint. Real farmers is our goal, and we believe the boys can reach this end only by actual practical work and study combined.

When the class started in January, 1919 there were eleven pupils enrolled. There is a promising class of thirteen boys this year, six of whom were pupils last year. We are training for a vocation second to none and I feel that all boys interested should be given every opportunity by their parents to try out this line of work.

■ Much of our practical work might well be of much benefit to the people of the town, and we are always glad to do as much pruning, garden planting, and similar work, free of charge, as is consistent with our program. Furthermore this department stands ready to get technical advice for the farmers of the town whenever it will be of any value to them.

Besides the regular class work there are various side issues in the Agricultural Department, first of which may be mentioned the State Clubs. There are state clubs for poultry raising, gardening, calf raising, corn growing, potato growing, canning, and a few other things. Each of these clubs is headed by a man at the state college and is composed of boys and girls enrolled throughout the state. The work is still farther subdivided by counties, and the first prize winner in each club for each county receives as a prize a week's vacation at Amherst with all expenses paid.

This year sixteen boys and girls enrolled mostly in the garden club, although pig, poultry, and potato projects were carried on. There was some very creditable work done and eleven complete reports were sent to headquarters. The results of the competition have not yet been announced. Club work offers great possibilities by creating an interest in agriculture which should stimulate love of the country. Through these clubs are also discovered boys who will profit by our regular agricultural course.

For the younger boys and girls we have the Easton Home and School Garden Club which enrolled for the season 1919 about 160 members. The gardens were supervised by members of the club. Forty of these gardens were considered worthy of visitation by the judging team; and Mr. Parker and Mr. Whyte, who so kindly gave of their time for this work, had much to say in praise of some of the gardens. The season ended with an exhibit of the produce raised, in the North Easton Grammar School building, and many fine exhibits were shown. Nearly forty dollars in prizes for exhibits and gardens was given, besides many ribbons. It is through this work that we can pick boys and girls suitable for the State Club work, and also even for the agricultural classes.

In this department there is a special provision which makes the agricultural instructor a milk inspector for the town of Easton. The purpose of this work, carried on through the local board of health, is to make sure that the citizens of this town are obtaining pure and nourishing milk. It is the duty of the inspector to collect the samples from all who sell milk within the limits of the town, and to test these for butter fat, solids not fat, sediment, and bacteria. It gives me pleasure to say that on the whole I have found the milk consumed in this town to be of a good grade; and that whenever there has been slight trouble it is due to oversight or misunderstanding, and not to intentional neglect or deceit.

While there are apparently many different branches of work connected with the agricultural department they are so closely interwoven that, in fact, they are all part of one big plan.

As regards the project work with the high school pupils I wish to state that the following suggestions are very desirable:

- a) More cooperation on part of parents
- b) More capital or equipment

The measure of value of the agricultural department is the actual experience the boys can obtain as a basis for scientific study. The home project is the first way to accomplish this. Agriculture requires capital as well as any other modern business, and a project worth the name cannot be successful without capital and without the heartiest cooperation and sympathy on the part of the parents.

REPORT OF THE PRACTICAL ARTS INSTRUCTOR, MR. EUGENE P. MARTIN

The work of the sloyd department has progressed rapidly because of the interest of the boys. The course which we have planned starts with the planing of a simple object such as a key rack. After this the pupils make about twenty graded models arranged in such an order as to give them the experience of using some tool not previously used. When they have finished these models satisfactorily, they are allowed to make a piece of furniture for home use. Although we do not aim to make artisans of the boys, much skill is required.

Sloyd is required in the 6th grade classes of the Grammar School and in the Junior High School classes, while in the High School it is an elective.

The cane seating class, made up of boys from the fifth grade, is progressing rapidly, and the results are very good.

The progress of the mechanical drawing classes has been slowed up on account of insufficient and poor equipment, but we look to more rapid progress now with the additional improved equipment. The drawing room is ideal and that helps a great deal to make it attractive for the boys. The course consists of mechanical drawing, some machine design, and some building construction. Of course the making of blue-prints and tracing is taught to more advanced pupils. Drawing is required for the 8A classes, but for the High School pupils it is an elective. The scholars are interested and are doing very good work.
